Dear Ehud,

Thank you for your note. We have been working on assembling the team of the project and you will expect our new project leader to communicate with you and Profess Goldwasser. I will keep you informed when we confirm the nomination very soon. No worry and look forward to our forthcoming collaboration.

All the best,

Dear Dr. Jiang,

I hope you are doing well. It's been a while since we communicated, and I would like to follow up on our last discussion and see if there are any questions we can address in order to facilitate our joint vision.

Professor Goldwasser is continuously engaged with Israeli start up Medical ventures showcasing our concept of developing a “copy paste” model whereby SAIL acquire exclusive technology rights in China. The reaction is very favorable, and we hope to introduce these innovative firms to your team in the near future in Israel or in China. Unfortunately as time passes, so do opportunities. At least one of the companies with which your team met is about to go public on the NASDAQ and will therefore not be in need of financing.

Still, I wish to assure you of our unwavering confidence in our cooperation and look forward to mutual success.

Best personal regards,

Ehud Barak
